TABLE OF FIGURES

Figure 1: The Internet Value Chain
Figure 2: Global Network Equipment Capex Forecasts for WICs & CSPs
Figure 3: Estimated Vendor Revenues Coming From WICs
Figure 4: The Chances of WICs Continuing to Build & Specify Their Own Products
Figure 5: Profit Margins on Sales to the WICs: What Vendors Are Reporting
Figure 6: The Vendor That Will Spend Most on Telecom Equipment Through 2019
Figure 7: The WIC That Poses the Greatest Competitive Threat to CSPs
Figure 8: Google Fiber’s Coverage Footprint: Current, Planned & Potential
Figure 9: Nokia’s AirFrame: An Output From the Open Compute Project (OCP)
Figure 10: A Breakdown of TIP Project Groups
Figure 11: What Vendors Think of the Telecom Infrastructure Project
Figure 12: The WIC That CSPs Consider to Be the Best Partner for Them
Figure 13: How Likely Is It a WIC Will Buy a Tier 1 CSP Within Five Years?
Figure 14: Risks to CSP Relationships From Working With WICs
Figure 15: Who Will Drive Service Enablement & Application Layers in the IoT?
Figure 16: The Vendor Perspective on Innovation – Who Leads & Who Follows?
Figure 17: What Vendors Want From WICs as a Contribution to the Ecosystem
Figure 18: Open Source Communities Impacting the Telecom Sector
Figure 19: Open Source – Opportunity or Threat?
Figure 20: Patent Case Filings & Grants (U.S.)
Figure 21: The Strategic Intent of the WICs in IPR
Figure 22: USPTO Tech Patent Grants by Applicant, 2015
Figure 23: Patent Cross-Licensing Deals Concluded by the WICs
Figure 24: Cisco, Google & Intel Partner Closely on Patent Issues
Figure 25: IETF Participation Rates of 15 Selected Companies
Figure 26: What Vendors Expect From the WICs in 5G
Figure 27: How Much Should Vendors Worry About "Brain Drain" to the WICs?
Figure 28: Preferred Solutions to the Brain Drain Problem